Show HN: Detect randomness and predictability in natural language - fcambus ===== gjm11 (1) I would have appreciated being given a link to the paper that you refer to at the bottom of your page. (2) I'm not sure what the intended audience for this is. (If it's to encourage people to use statistical methods, which it is, then why would you make your GUI as non-statistically-oriented as possible?) But for the intended audience there are many, many, many other randomness-detection and prediction tools with better coverage. So you may want to consider a different name or maybe not. (3) I would like to know whether your claim to give "confidence estimates" (!) in the output really applies to the output I see; it looks to me like the output is basically random. And I don't see how confidence estimates wouldn't be pretty weird. What I did notice is that "predictability" seems to be a huge problem, but there is no obvious way to fix that. (4) The one thing I did notice that I found rather hard was the tool's ability to do the same thing for Hebrew and Arabic; the output is about the same (especially for randomness) but for some reason the web page doesn't display different pages for Hebrew and Arabic. I don't have any experience with Arabic, but I imagine it's similarly hard to produce reliable outputs from it. (5) I would have liked to see "Related Projects" in a separate column (say, with a "Read more" link); I find the list of projects here [pretty confusing. ~~~ fcambus (1) Link to the paper is at the bottom of the page. Homepage: Get it at: Category: Sports management Category: Sports management softwareAlvin Harrison Alvin Harrison Jr. (December 6, 1926 - January 20, 2001) was an American actor and director of television, stage, and film, most notably as the stars of the satirical TV series What's Happening!?. Early life and career Harrison was born in Los Angeles. He attended Long Beach Polytechnic High School, where his acting ambitions were initially thwarted by "the system" (Harrison believed that it "discriminated against and abused the 'poor kids'") and he was sent to a reformatory until the age of 15. After service in the United States Navy, Harrison worked as a phone company technician in Oakland, California. He went to San Francisco for the first time in 1945, in the midst of World War II, and worked in the shipyards until returning to Oakland. Acting Harrison first appeared on stage in San Francisco at the age of 17 in 1941. In the 1950s, he was a stage actor in Los Angeles, appearing in plays such as "The Odd Couple", "Damn Yankees", "A Raisin in the Sun", and "The Unsinkable Molly Brown". During this period he also appeared in several films. During the 1960s, he was featured in several television shows, such as "Love, American Style", "The Rat Patrol", "Gomer Pyle, U.S.M.C.", and "The Real McCoys". He also appeared in a few films, such as "Julius Caesar"
